

Uncle Leroy bought a donkey from Cousin Charlie for $100.00. Cousin Charlie agreed to deliver the donkey the next day. The next day Cousin Charlie drove up and told Uncle Leroy, "Sorry Leroy, but that donkey I sold you died."

Uncle Leroy said, "That's okay. Just give me my money back and we'll call it square."

Cousin Charlie said, "I wish I could Leroy but I already spent it."

Uncle Leroy thought about it for a moment and said, "Well, just bring the old donkey over and unload it out back of the barn."

Cousin Charlie asked, "Leroy, what are you going to do with him?"

Uncle Leroy said, "I'm going to raffle him off."

Cousin Charlie said, "You can't raffle off a dead donkey!"

Uncle Leroy replied, "Sure I can, just watch me! I'm not going to tell anybody he's dead."

A month later Cousin Charlie met up with Uncle Leroy and asked him, "Leroy, what ever happened with that dead donkey?"

Uncle Leroy said, "I raffled him off like I told you I would. I sold 500 tickets at $2 each and after all was said and done I had made a profit of $898."

Cousin Charlie looked at Leroy and asked, "Well Leroy didn't anybody complain?"

Uncle Leroy said, "Just the guy who won, so I gave him his money back!"
